Day Conference Organiser's Report 2016-17

Spring 2017 conference at Birkbeck College, University of London

The Spring 2017 conference was very successful with high numbers of conference delegates and sessions on offer. It was great to be able to welcome and learn from our colleagues from France.

Many thanks to our Local Hosts (Alison Clark-Wilson and Pete Wright) and their team of student volunteers. (Alison worked tirelessly behind the scenes as a key liaison person between the BSRLM Executive and our French counterparts)

Summer 2017 New Researchers Day and Conference at the University of Oxford

Both the Summer 2017 New Researchers' Day (NRD) and the conference were a major success, breaking records (both in terms of the numbers of delegates and sessions) when compared to our previous NRDs and Summer conferences.

Many thanks to Jenni Ingram and her team of colleagues and student volunteers for helping to organise both events as well as to her colleagues for agreeing to offer a range of very popular and useful NRD sessions for early career researchers. Particular thanks to Jenni for managing to persuade key people at her institution to let us use the Department of Education and the Mathematical Institute facilities free of charge.
